How would this help the community?

Replacing the abandoned post office with affordable housing will significantly improve the Alexandria community by turning an eyesore into a helpful resource. This project solves the major problem of high rent costs by providing a needed service that is currently missing in our neighborhood. The construction process will support the local economy by creating many new jobs for workers who need to provide for their families. By improving this abandoned property, we also attract new residents who will spend money at local businesses and keep the area active.

This new housing gives people a safe place to live and gather, making the entire neighborhood feel more welcoming and complete. Overall, this plan turns a wasted piece of land into a valuable asset that benefits everyone in Alexandria.
